

Curious Facts or Wild Fiction?

Do you know which of the following statements are curious facts and which are wild fiction?

Almost is the longest word in English with all the letters in alphabetical order.

Kangaroos cannot walk backwards.

You can see the Great Wall of China from space.

Jackie French was once an echidna milker.

Bats are blind.

Hippopotamus milk is pink.

Chewing gum takes 7 years to digest.

Winnie the Pooh was named after a bear in the London Zoo called Winnipeg.

Bulls hate the colour red.

It rains diamonds on Saturn and Jupiter.

Wombat poo is square.

The first pair of scissors was left-handed.

Snails can sleep for up to 3 years.

Vikings wore horned helmets.

At school, Roald Dahl was better at sport than he was at writing.

Bananas grow on trees.

Before 1913 parents could mail their children through the post office.

Carrots help you see in the dark.

Gabrielle Wang found a treasure box of precious jewels under her house.

Mammoths still walked the earth when the great pyramid was being built.

In England, Jacqueline Harvey once slept in the very same bed that Prince William had slept in.

In Brazil they call Brazil nuts 'Argentines'.

Goats have rectangular eye pupils.

Among his author friends, Mark Greenwood is known as 'Rocky' because he was once a singer in a rock band.

A Tsunami can travel as fast as a jet plane.

It can rain frogs and fish.

Pirates wore eye patches so they could see better in the dark.

Black holes are black.

An octopus has 3 hearts.

The strawberry is the only fruit that bears seeds on the outside.

There is no word that rhymes with orange.

Dr Seuss wrote The Cat in the Hat in one week.

Eric Carle got the idea for The Very Hungry Caterpillar from playing with a hole punch.

Answers: bit.ly/BWSong

